MARKET OUTLOOK

Bank Negara Malaysia (BNM) has maintained the Overnight Policy Rate (OPR) at 3.00% for the eighth consecutive Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) meeting, held on 4-5 September 2024. This decision despite the recent cut in the Fed Fund Rate by the US Federal Reserve. BNM believes that the current monetary policy is adequately accommodative to support domestic economy, particularly given the moderation in domestic inflation despite the recent rationalization of diesel subsidies.

Headline inflation rate moderated to +1.9% YoY in Aug 2024. The inflation number is well within targeted “core” and headline inflation target of 2-3%. Food & Beverages (F&B) price index remained at +1.6% YoY in Aug 2024 while Housing, Water, Electricity, Gas & Other Fuels (HWEGOF) inflation eased to +3.1% YoY (Jul 2024: +3.2% YoY).

After recorded +5.1% growth in 1H24, BNM remains cautiously optimistic about domestic economic growth, bolstered by a strong recovery in the job market (with a 1.7% YoY increase in labor market participation and stable unemployment at 3.3%) and resilient global trade in both Electrical & Electronic (E&E) and non-E&E sectors, evidenced by an August PMI increase of +4.0% YoY. However, BNM acknowledges potential risks stemming from geopolitical tensions and a potential economic slowdown particularly from developed economies.

Supported by resilient domestic employment and private consumption coupled with strong export and moderated inflation, BNM is expecting the economy to grow between 4-5% in 2024. This is supported by commendable GDP growth in 2Q 2024, +5.9% YoY. Meanwhile, inflation is expected to remain within the target range of 2-3% as recent impact on diesel subsidies rationalization have been contained.

With expectation of moderated inflation, a resilient domestic economy along with stable labor market and recent MYR stability against USD, the current monetary policy is accommodative enough and we maintain our view for OPR to remain unchanged at 3.00% for 2024.
